Play Therapy in Schools – Order Form

The 'Play Therapy in Schools' booklet provides information for school personnel, such as SENCOs or Lead Behaviour Professionals, and other members of school staff who encounter Play Therapists working in the educational environment. The booklet is a valuable resource for those Play Therapists working in schools who need to explain their work: both the theory and the practical implications.

'Play Therapy in Schools' looks at the benefits of Play Therapy and the reasons why it is appropriate in a school environment. It goes on to list the facilities and arrangements required to conduct Play Therapy in schools, together with an outline of the process itself and the five ground rules of Confidentiality, Consistency, Commitment, Consent and Child Protection. Finally, the booklet answers some of the most common questions asked about Play Therapy and provides information about how to find a qualified Play Therapist.

The 8-page booklet is attractively illustrated throughout with black & white photographs.
